

Gifted With ADD

A child is born. Hes bright, exuberant, playful, gregarious, curious, and vibrant. By the time hes three or four, hes into everything, willful, spirited, all boy. When he gets to school, perhaps as late as first grade, the words that describe him become learning disabled, inattentive, and unruly. Other adults try to tell you there is something wrong with your child, that you know it, and that he needs medication and treatment. Theyre wrong. Hes brilliant, gifted, and creative. He has the ability to far exceed the highest expectations of these narrow-minded thinkers, if only given the opportunity to show what he can do. Gifted With ADD arms parents with the information necessary to find positive resources to bring out the best in their ADD-gifted child. If you follow the ADD is a disease trail, it only leads to continued stress and unnecessary pain for your child. Open the world of possibility to him and return harmony to your household and your childs life.
