

Roving with Lalah: Slices of Everyday Jamaican Life

There is no place like Jamaica. Often described as an island paradise, the sights and sounds, the flora and fauna, the sun, sand and sea, the mountains and the music, all entice visitors and enthrall residents. But far beyond all of that, the most unique quality of Jamaica is its people. In Roving with Lalah, Roving reporter Robert Lalah takes us on a journey around the island, taking a unique look at typical Jamaican life. The stories simply describe what happens in a particular place at a particular time in an authentic and true Jamaican voice. Based on the popular weekly newspaper column in the Gleaner newspaper, Roving with Lalah is a snapshot of parts of Jamaican culture and heritage sometimes not recorded and often forgotten. The stories are humorous, yet informative, and give a true account of the day to day lives of Jamaicans of all walks of life.
